

THE INTERGENERATIONAL TRAUMA TREATMENT MODEL

5-DAY INTENSIVE TRAINING

June 8-12, 2020 • Toronto, Canada

ONLY 18 SEATS AVAILABLE – REGISTER IN ADVANCE

This 5-day, live intensive training will be held at The Adler Graduate Professional School in Toronto, Ontario. Advanced clinical skills required to effectively deliver the 21-session Intergenerational Trauma Treatment Model (ITTM) with adults, caregivers and children, will be extensively demonstrated by Valerie Copping, Psy.D., author/developer.

The ITTM is the only available and evidenced-based model to treat and resolve the un-resolved trauma impact history of the caregiver/adult prior to engaging children or youth in their own treatment (with the Caregiver present).

The minimum training for a group of mental health clinic professionals who implement the ITTM at their employer's clinic is 10-days. Therefore, in order to benefit from the 5-day intensive in-person training, a minimum of 20 hours preparation prior to the training is required (via the receipt of and learning the ITTM Training Manual & Videos).

It stands to reason that because the ITTM is a BIG model with BIG outcomes, BIG training is required. Therefore, a solid base of knowledge and understanding of the ITTM's theories and methods is required to ensure the 5-day intensive in-person training will be of ANY clinical or practical value. The theoretical underpinnings and foundation of the ITTM are best described in: Re-Circuiting Trauma Pathways in Adults, Parents, and Children: A Brain-Based, Intergenerational Trauma Treatment Method (Copping, V.E., 2019). (available at Amazon and Routledge)
